

A REMARKABLE CASE.—Sixteen years ago last Wednesday, James Bay, then a resident of Pontiac, was bitten by a rabid dog, but experienced no serious effect from the dog bite, with one year from the day he was bitten. He then felt some symptoms of the terrible disease, which soon developed into a most frightful attack. For six weeks he was a raving maniac, and all hope of his recovery was abandoned; but an iron constitution, and skillful nursing, brought him out from the shadow of death, and he rallied, the disease finally passing off. He pursued the even tenor of his way until the second anniversary, when he was again attacked, but with less severity than on the first occasion. The 26th day of June in each succeeding year he has been the occasion of a hydrophobia fit, the last of which attacked him one week ago yesterday, at Sandwich, where he was a brick maker. The usual symptoms were felt during the early part of the day, and Bay requested some of his friends to tie him in order to prevent personal injury. Being frightened by his peculiar appearance, they refused to do so, and he continued at his work all day, and until midnight, his usual time for quitting. Going to a neighboring barn he tried to sleep off the dreaded attack. After a while his companions heard a noise in the barn, and fearing that it was as Bay had declared, went to his aid. An appalling sight greeted them. The poor victim was foaming at the mouth, biting at various objects, and to all appearance suffering the most frightful agony. As soon as he caught sight of them, with eyes glowing like fire balls, and uttering an unearthly yell, he made a rush for them. The party at once retreated, leaving Bay alone in the gloomy hayloft, wrought up to the highest pitch of maniacal frenzy, and battling with an enemy which no mortal man can subdue. In one of his convulsions he lifted a portion of the roof completely off, which evidently exhausted him, as nothing more was heard, and when his friends finally ventured to look after him he was found in a sound sleep. He was at once secured and taken to a place of safety, where he was kept for several hours, and when he awoke nearly all traces of the previous night's awful experience had disappeared, and with the exception of the exhaustion produced by his great sufferings, was as well as usual. —(Detroit Free Press.)

THE TRUE GENTLEMAN.—He is above a mean thing. He cannot stoop to a mean fraud. He invades no secret in the keeping of another. He betrays no secret confided to his own keeping. He never struts in borrowed plumage. He never takes selfish advantage of our mistakes. He uses no ignoble weapons in controversy. He never stabs in the dark. He is ashamed of intemperance. He is not one thing to a man's face and another behind his back. If by accident he comes in possession of his neighbor's counsel he passes upon them an act of instant oblivion. He bears sealed packages without tampering with the wax. Papers not meant for his eyes, whether they flutter at his window or lie open before him in unguarded exposure, are sacred to him. He invades no privacy of others, however the sentry sleeps. Bolts and bars, locks and keys; ledgers and pickets, bonds and securities, notice to trespassers, are none of them for him. He may be trusted himself out of sight—near the thinnest partition—anywhere. He buys no offices, he sells none, he intrigues for none. He would rather fail of his rights than win them through dishonor. He will eat honest bread. He trembles on no sensitive feelings. If he have rebuke for another, he is straight-forward, open, manly. He cannot descend to scurrility. In short whatever he judges honorable, he practices toward every man.

DEPEND ON YOURSELF.—Most young men consider it a misfortune to be born poor, or not to have capital enough to establish themselves at the outset of life in a good and profitable business. This is a mistaken notion. So far from poverty being a misfortune to them, if we may judge from what we daily behold, it is really a blessing; the chances are more than ten to one against him who starts with a fortune. Most rich men's sons die in poverty, while many poor men's sons come to wealth and honor. It is a blessing instead of a curse to have to work out their fortune.

GOOD EXAMPLES.—One of our boys a member of our band of hope, went to a neighboring city recently, and while there purchased some candy. Upon putting the first piece into his mouth, he found it was one of those villainous things called "wine-drops," and he threw the whole package away. That was through principle. Another of our boys was wanted by his uncle, who was a tavern-keeper to stand behind his bar. His mother was appealed to in the absence of the boy. Upon his return she told him what his uncle desired. "Why did you not show him my pledges, mother?" was the only reply the noble boy made. All honor to the brave, and true! We gave three cheers for each of these boys at a meeting of our Band of Hope!

A SPICY STORY.—There was a knot of sea captains in a store at Honolulu, the keeper of which had just bought a barrel of black pepper. Old Capt. of Salem, came in, and seeing the pepper, took up a handful. "What do you buy such stuff as that for?" said he to the store-keeper, "it's half peas." "Peas!" replied the store-keeper, "there isn't a pea in it." Taking up a handful as he spoke he appealed to the company. They all looked at it and plucked their hands into the barrel, and bit a kernel or so, and then gave it as their universal opinion that there was not a pea in it. "I tell you there is," said the old captain, again scooping up a handful; "and I'll bet a dollar on it." The old Boston argument all over the world. They took him up. "Well," said he, "spell that," pointing to the word "p-e-p-p-e-r," painted on the side of the barrel; "if it isn't half p's then I'm no judge, that's all." The bet was paid.

A farmer in Pennsylvania writes to one of our exchanges the following memorandum of WORK FOR A WET DAY:
"Barnyard to shovel up and manure to haul to next fall's wheat ground.
"Go over and fix up all fences.
"Barn doors, yard gates, &c., to mend.
"Drains and wash water outlets to be attended to.
"Mowing machine to be put in order—also horse-rake and hay-tedder.
"Grease wagons; mend harness and bages; wash carriages.
"Cut and haul wood and clean out the cellar; whitewash, &c.
"Hedge-houses to clean out, and compost for corn to make."

Make the heart right, and the man will be right, the child will be right; make the men, women and children right, and the home will be right. make the home right, and the town and city will be right; make the town and cities right, and the States will be right, and the nations will be right and the world will be right.

Brigham Young ungallantly said of the wife of Joe Smith, the Prophet, that she "was the d—dest liar he knew." This was part of a Sunday afternoon sermon upon the Smith family.

BANISH OF BEING KNOCKED ABOUT.—It is a good thing for a young man to be "knocked about in the world," though his soft-hearted parents may not think so. All youths, or if not all, certainly nineteen-twentieths of the sum total, enter life with a surmounting of self-conceit. The sooner they are relieved of it the better. If, in measuring themselves, they discover it is unwarranted, and get rid of it gracefully, of their own accord, well and good; if not, it is desirable, for their own sakes, that it be knocked out of them.

A boy who is sent to a large school soon finds his level. His will may be as rampant as at home, but school boys are democratic in their ideas, and if arrogant he is sure to be thrashed in to a recognition of the golden rule. The world is a great public school, and it soon teaches a new pupil his proper place. If he has the attributes that belong to a leader, he will be installed in the position of a leader; if not, whatever his own opinion of his abilities may be, he will be compelled to fall in with the rank and file. If not destined to greatness, the next best thing which he can aspire to is respectability; but no man can either be truly great or truly respectable who is vain, pompous and overbearing.

By this time the novice, having found his legitimate social status, be the same high or low, the probability is that the disagreeable traits of his character will be so tuned down and worn away. Most likely the process of abrasion will be rough, perhaps very rough, but when it is all over, and he begins to see himself as others see him, and not as reflected in the mirror of self-conceit, he will be thankful that he has run the gauntlet, and arrived, through by a rough road, at self-knowledge.

Upon the whole, whatever loving mothers may think to the contrary, it is a good thing for their boys to be knocked about in the world; it makes men of them.

We think this extract from a medical advertisement is entirely correct. "Consumptives cough while you can; for after you have taken one bottle of my mixture you can't."

A firm faith is the best theology; a good life the best philosophy; a clear conscience the best law; honesty the best policy; and temperance the best physic.

There is a man down East, a rather facetious fellow whose name is Rath. He named his first child Something; it was Something New. The next child he named Nothing; it was Nothing New.

A man in Cairo, running against a bar-boat the other night, pulled out his pocket book, threw it down and ran, supposing he was attacked by robbers.

DUPLEX ELLIPTIC
(OR DOUBLE SPRING)
SKIRT.

The Duplex Elliptic is a great success and has been extensively used in all the great cities of the world. It is a skirt that will be worn by all the great cities of the world. It is a skirt that will be worn by all the great cities of the world. It is a skirt that will be worn by all the great cities of the world.

A lady having ordered the Duplex Elliptic skirt for a single day, will never afterwards willingly wear any other skirt. For Ladies, Misses and Young Ladies they are superior to all others. They will not bend or break like the ordinary skirt, and they will not show the shape of the body, as the ordinary skirt does. They are covered with double and triple springs, and the bottom edge is not only double, but triple, and the springs are covered with a fine fabric, so that the skirt will not show the shape of the body, as the ordinary skirt does.

The Duplex Elliptic is a favorite with all ladies and is universally recognized by the Fashionable World. To enjoy the undisturbed advantages in cleanliness, style and finish, durability, comfort and economy, require for J. W. Bradly's Duplex Elliptic Skirt, and be sure you get the genuine article.

CAUTION. Beware of cheap imitations. It is particularly to be noted that Skirts called "Duplex" have the red ink stamp, viz: "J. W. Bradly's Duplex Elliptic Sk
